ABOUT THIS EVENT

The Australasian Dispute Resolution Research Network is hosting its 13th Research Roundtable, supported by the Faculty of Law at Monash University and the Australian Centre for Justice Innovation.

The Roundtable connects leading, emerging and mid-career scholars to foster high-quality, impactful research in dispute resolution. The Roundtable is built around peer support, constructive feedback and rich, collegial dialogue.

CALL FOR PAPER PROPOSALS

We welcome proposals that consider dispute resolution from a scholarly, critical and/or empirical perspective. Topics can be addressed for any disciplinary perspective, and we are especially interested in interdisciplinary approaches to dispute resolution. We particularly encourage submissions from postgraduate students and early career researchers. Papers must not have been published or submitted for publication, as the focus is work in progress.

There will be a limited number of papers accepted. A panel will select roundtable papers from abstracts submitted according to the following selection criteria:

- Papers take a scholarly, critical and/or empirical perspective on an area of dispute resolution;
- The roundtable will include a spread of participants across stages of career; and
- A well-balanced range of work will be presented at the roundtable to provide diversity, to develop the field and to enable cohesive discussion.

FURTHER INFORMATION ON PAPER PROPOSALS

Participation is on a self-funded basis.

We will also be asking you to draft a short (1,000 words max) blog post about your paper prior to the roundtable. Our blog reaches over 17,000 individuals per year and has over 25,000 hits. You will have a chance to edit your blog post after the roundtable if you would like to make any adjustments after feedback.

On the day, speakers are given up to 30 minutes for presentation, with 30 minutes for feedback and discussion. Two primary commentators will be appointed for each paper.

Deadline for paper proposals: 30 September 2025.
(300 word maximum plus short bio, to adrresearchnetwork@gmail.com)

We will have rolling acceptances for papers.

Draft (full) papers + blog post due: 10 November 2025 (to send to participants mid Nov.)
